Rev. Jerome Machar OCSO

"The lion roars --- who will not be afraid! The Lord God speaks --- who will not prophesy!" (Amos 3:8) Reading this morning's passage from the Prophet Amos, I felt like I was preparing to take a test. The passage is made up of rhetorical questions. The prophet has a reason for asking all those questions. Rather than simply reading each question and going on to the next one, we need to ponder each question in an attempt to uncover the reality behind each scenario. I will restrict my comments to the lion and its roar. Many of us are familiar with the roar of the MGM lion which is the company's trademark. So, let us think together. Why do lions roar?

The lion is the most social animal of all the wild feline species. They live in groups called prides. A lion's roar is arguably the world's most iconic animal sound. Roars can be heard from five miles away when conditions are right. The sound is deafening and awe-inspiring when heard from nearby. Roars are used to signal territoriality and to locate distant pride members. Amos also presents roaring as a part of the hunt. Supposedly, a male lion roared to incite panic in a herd. This would create a stampede and the prey would run headlong into a trap set by the lionesses of the pride. The lion roars to protect the pride and to feed it. The lion's roar terrifies the prey and reassures the pride.

The Lion of Judah roars, who will not listen up? The God of Israel speaks, who will not testify to His glory? When the Lion of Judah roars, what is his message? "You are my people. I made you. You belong to me." When the God of Israel speaks, what does he say? "I will establish my covenant between me and you and your offspring after you throughout their generations for an everlasting covenant, to be God to you and your offspring after you" (Gen. 17:7). Like Mary Magdalene, once we have seen the Lion of Judah and heard his message, we have one thing to do, spread the message, "I have seen the Lord" (Jn. 20:18). The content of this message does not come from extensive theological research. Rather, it flows from an encounter with the living Lord. May the Lord grant us the grace to be glad and to rejoice intensely because of the great glory and joy of Christ our Lord.

God has revealed his heart to us, who will not prophesy? This simple verse can serve as a window into the prophet's understanding of his vocation and the place of prophecy in God's salvific plan for the world. The lion's roar and the Father's voice are observable phenomena, which communicate hidden realities. The prophet has heard the voice of the Lord and shared sweet converse with Him. Filled with the flame of divine love, the prophet is sent to declare God's loving mercy to the world. His full-throated proclamation is: "God has exalted him to the highest place and gave him the name that is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue acknowledge that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father" (Phil. 2: 9-11). It's the crucified Lord that paved the way for the risen and glorified Lord. He who laid down his life in lamb-like surrender took it up again as the Lion of the tribe of Judah. When the Lion roars, may we find comfort in being under his watchful eye. When God speaks, may we tell others of his infinite love and mercy.

- "Lord, on this Labor Day, we thank You for the blessing of work.

We ask for strength to complete each day.

We ask for rest when we are weary.

We ask Your guidance for everyone seeking employment, and we ask that You be with those whose faces we might never see but who work tirelessly each day for the good of us all.

FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

It may have been happenstance that I referred to the ocean liner Titanic this past week. One Father Montague had used the image of the Titanic in relationship to arriving at the depths of God through the action of the Holy Spirit. That was in 1 Corinthians and in relationship to being taught by the Spirit. In his words the Spirit explores and reveals the depths of God to the believer. His reference to the Titanic was that it lay unseen on the ocean floor for seventy-three years until the use of searchlights and a television camera lowered to the depths revealed it to the explorers.

The ocean liner sank on 15 April 1912 and was discovered (as I mentioned at the evening liturgy) on 1 September 1985. It had laid hidden while many were pursuing the depths of the ocean in search of the same. I understand that as a kind of consolation in appreciating with St. Paul that we continually seek to pursue the depths of the Spirit in our daily lives. Trouble may be that we may not think we can arrive at the manner of life that is given at Baptism and the gifts conferred at Confirmation. No matter what our age do we still seek to arrive at the depths of the Spirit in our minds and in our hearts. Do we even consider how much more we are in continual formation as those who are Spirit led. We sing "Come Holy Ghost Creator Blest and in our hearts take up thy rest." Other lyrics offer "To ev'ry sense they light impart and shed thy love in ev'ry heart. To our weak flesh. Thy strength supply unfailing courage from on high." Our own Great Lakes Science Center has a Titanic artifact exhibition. So too we have relics of saints in our chapel that testify to the depths of a relationship with the Holy Spirit that conditioned their lives. May our own lives be a continual searching after and seeking the fruits and gifts of the Holy Spirit. May we seek to continually to be renewed and sanctified and transformed in the Spirit

From Bobbi Bugaj

On Tuesday evening (following) after Mass and evening prayer I was sitting on my deck and beholding the dusk. I looked over to the right side of my deck and a rabbit was in the yard staring at me. Nibbling at grass and then looking up again to make sure that I was still there. These times remind me of all the opportunities I experience the presence of God. I just sat in wonder of this moment. When I went out on to the deck, the rabbit had to have already been there. As I was there about 20 minutes, the rabbit decided not only was I not trouble for him, the rabbit felt comfortable enough to eat and not scared enough to run away. I think of the words in the Our Father. "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven." In one moment, I got a glimpse of heaven. I felt like the Lion and Lamb moments in Scriptures and there was another moment of peace and maybe a little compassion because I did not want to move and break this moment. I wanted the rabbit to feed and go away peacefully. I thought of the times as Mass when in the breaking of the Eucharistic and the receiving was healing and strengthening. Now, I do not always pause this way, I just want you to know. Sometimes I pause and think the animals in my neighborhood are very aggressive. The squirrels will literally sit on my fence and yell at me. (It is really funny.) But that was not this moment. This was what I call a "But now" moment, because something has changed. I had changed for this moment and my heart wanted to stay there. I was part of being present and acknowledging that moment. There was a way to peace and while maybe fleeting, it was not fickle. I chose to sit there, acknowledge the world around me and participate in what I will call, "the prayer." That heartfelt moment when in the stillness and silence I let myself feel the presence of God in my life. That moment where I acknowledge the love and my participation in a relationship that restores renews and rejuvenates faith. In this moment of seeing God in a world I can walk by sometimes and not notice, is healing. I am restored in the moment because I have swept away at the chaos of the world and let the peace of Christ be there alone. I am renewed by the thought, that while I might miss this moment 90% of the time, the God that creates all things, surprisingly recreates my heart in his image. This is what allows me to sit and see God in the world and in the final words of James Joyce, reveal in the thought "That only God can make a tree," and let me sit in peace and companionship with a rabbit. I love that God and I have these moments. That he finds me where I am in life and asked for me to be present with Him, and then when I am, there is a "But now" moment. "But now" moments are full of forgiveness, compassion, and lots of mercy. Like everything, "But now" moments are a grace that I hope changes my heart to follow at all times the footsteps of Jesus. To find a permanent, not just fleeting moment that says I am present Lord, use me.

On September 12-13, St. Martin of Tours Parish will learn about the ministries of Franciscan Mission Service (FMS). As a Catholic, 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, FMS prepares and sends lay people to serve communities in South America, the Caribbean, and here in the United States—and the organization relies on the prayers and financial support of U.S. parishes to do this. In anticipation of this visit, Franciscan Mission Service invites parishioners to reflect on Pope Leo XIV's words from his first papal message: "Together, we must look for ways to be a missionary Church, a Church that builds bridges and encourages dialogue, a Church ever open to welcoming... all those who are in need of our charity, our presence, our readiness to dialogue and our love." How might you be called to mission, to dialogue, to presence? Some give by going on mission, and some go by giving—with both prayer and donations. To find out more and hear missionaries' first-hand accounts, visit www.franciscanmissionservice.org.
